D CONDITIONS OF USE

1. The user is committed to use the computer facilities of the Department of General Linguistics (and related projects) solely for the purpose indicated in this application, to follow the instructions concerning the use of the computer facilities given here and in the web address <http://www.helsinki.fi/atk/english/rules.html> and to report on the progress of the related research in a manner to be specified elsewhere.
2. The user is aware of the fact that a number of files, such as many those containing programs, corpora and other types of data, stored in the computers accessible to the user, may only be used in certain computers and for certain purposes for reasons of copyright and related regulations. Violating such conditions and rights of use would not only be against the law and good manners, but it would also jeopardize the possibilities of future research in the Department. The user is committed to not copying such files.
3. When reporting on work where Department facilities such as corpora, equipment or programs developed at the Department have been used, proper mention and reference should be made.

Validity: for Department students until the 30th September, for others one calendar year. Department students will receive an expiration notice and instructions on renewal per e-mail, others should take care of renewal themselves. After expiration, the user's material is stored for a year and then removed from the Department server.

I hereby declare that I have read the above conditions and commit myself to obeying all of them.
